Best Of Instagram Street Photography

Finding good photographs on Instagram can be hard. Finding photographers who consistently produce great work is even more difficult. In this “Best Of Instagram” series I feature the work of talented, creative Instagramers from around the world who produce professional quality work that you should be following. Each installment focuses on a specific genre of photography, locale, or theme. Last time we looked at some amazing food photographers.

Today we take a look at four top street photographers who focus their trained eyes on the people and places of the cities they call home.

Frenchman Hannibal Renberg’s love affair with photography goes back to his student days shooting with a Minolta SLR and developing rolls of film in his Paris apartment. Today, he shoots exclusively with an iPhone, documenting his fellow Parisians as they go about their daily lives. “I love to walk the streets and try to catch the unusual, or find moments of emotion,” he says. “I especially love the contrast between advertising and people.” Indeed, the fashion and beauty ads of Parisian window displays, bus stops and metro stations provide both humorous and poignant juxtapositions with Renberg’s subjects. Shooting in black-and-white, Renberg favors Hipstamatic as his camera app and uses Snapseed to edit his images.

Renberg is an active participant in the French mobile community, serving as a judge in last year’s Paris Mobile Photography Awards. His iPhone images have been exhibited in galleries, with a new show set to open in Paris next month.
